Danny McCorry: BRI chapter founder, student leader, policy influencer

Greetings!

#16 DANNY McCORRY, MD
Georgetown University

"There was little discussion of allowing the free market to work, or giving power back to physicians & patients directly."

NEXGENMED Available on iTunes

Danny McCorry belongs to an elite group of BRI student leaders. He is completing a successful medical school career, while having led a robust BRI chapter and making a difference in the healthcare policy realm through his healthcare policy white papers and research (The Heritage Foundation, Forbes).

His work has positively influenced several states' positions on insurance and direct primary care legislation.

~Danny McCorry, MS4, on Georgetown Medical School's healthcare policy instruction

We are understandably proud of BRI student leaders like Danny who have leveraged their love of medicine and interest in healthcare policy with BRI support into real, life-changing work. They continue to inspire current and future doctors to stay involved in the healthcare policy discussion so we all will have a bright medical future.

CATO INSTITUTE

Check out CATO's FREE resources page for Benjamin Rush Institute
medical students!

We were really pleased to see a CATO Institute resources page specifically geared towards Benjamin Rush Institute students! CATO fellows and scholars have been very supportive of our events and debates over the years, and we couldn't be happier to see these FREE, high quality resources they are providing!

From their page: "Government is so deeply involved in the financing and delivery of health care that today's medical students must be fluent in health policy as well as medicine. Yet medical schools often provide only a narrow perspective on health reform.

"This page is a resource for medical students who wish to learn how a market system can make medical care better, more affordable, and more secure than any other system can. Here, Benjamin Rush Institute members can contact Cato scholars, download free copies of Cato Institute e-books, and immediately access a wide range of Cato research and analysis on health policy."

The page lists the following titles by CATO scholars and fellows:

- Replacing ObamaCare
- Crisis of Abundance
- Healthy Competition
- Medicare Meets Mephistopheles

In keeping with Danny's NexGenMed podcast message, these CATO policy primers will be a huge asset to the med students wanting to educate themselves on free market healthcare policy!
