

BRI is building a great fall foundation over the summer!

Greetings!

We hope you're taking advantage of summer's less hectic schedule to catch up on projects and plans that are important to you. At BRI, summer is the time for us to lay the groundwork for events and conferences that will launch our chapters into a fabulous fall--and beyond.

Tony Mazzaferro,
SLU-BRI, 2018
summer intern

BRI's 2018 summer intern, Tony Mazzaferro is already hard at work producing more valuable Next Generation Medicine podcasts. He'll be interviewing medical -innovators, -entrepreneurs, healthcare policy experts, DPC docs, and much more. Check it out!

Mises Institute's Libertarian Scholars Conference

OCTOBER 20, 2018 | THE KING'S COLLEGE | NEW YORK CITY

The Libertarian Scholars Conference was originally conceived as a forum for scholars from different disciplines to meet and exchange ideas on the study of liberty. The ultimate goal was to integrate their diverse insights and approaches into a broad interdisciplinary perspective on liberty, what Murray Rothbard called "the discipline of liberty." The founders of the conference hoped that this discipline or systematic body of knowledge would give shape and direction to the growing ideological movement of modern libertarianism, much as British classical and French liberal political economy had guided the movement of classical (laissez-faire) liberalism. This series of conferences succeeded admirably in stimulating scholarly research from a libertarian perspective and attracting many new scholars, young and old, to the scientific study of liberty.

BRI is sponsoring up to five (5) student scholarships, including:

Conference registration fees, hotel, airline and select transportation costs, and select food costs.

Apply HERE by September 27, 2018.

FORMER BRI STUDENT LEADERS STILL MAKING A DIFFERENCE AS DOCTORS

Long-time BRI leader Kristy Lynn Hawley, MD MPH (BRI-The George Washington University) recently completed a co-authored paper, The Impact of Price Transparency for Surgical Services.

Dr. Hawley is now a General Surgery Resident (PGY-2) at MedStar Health in Baltimore, MD. She credits BRI for the connections she made while a student leader that allowed her to gain access to the information and contacts she and her co-authors needed to complete the paper.

"The leading barrier reported to making prices transparent was discouragement from another practice, hospital, or insurance company." ~Kristy L. Hawley, MD MPH
